Consultancy services

BACKGROUND

The college of Arts and Social Sciences (CASS) is one of the five colleges of the University of Rwanda. It is known for being in service since when it was part of the former National University of Rwanda which was the oldest University in the country and this has allowed the College to become a respected source of academic and professional expertise.

The college has been extending its activities beyond research and teaching and engage in consultancy services to make available its knowledge and expertise to various stakeholders including the private and public sectors at local and regional level. Therefore, the Consultancy unit has been serving as the coordinating body for all consultancy projects performed by the college, and uses the talents and expertise of the College staff members in order to actively contribute in the national development.
